Kinloch Park Vision

Kinloch Park is an approximately nine-acre neighborhood park located northwest of the intersection of Suburban Ave. and N. Florissant Road in north St. Louis County. Developed in the mid-1960s, the original park featured a spray pool, playground, lighted ball fields, tennis courts, basketball courts, and a picnic shelter. Today, only the shelter and basketball courts remain.

The park serves a disadvantaged area of North County and, while once quite popular, the lack of amenities and poor conditions has caused a steep decline in use. The residents of Kinloch deserve a refurbished recreational area for community well-being and, through an online survey, have requested basic amenities such as working restrooms, a renovated picnic shelter equipped with new bar-b-que pits, a playground, a refurbished ball field, and a new walking trail.

The Foundation supports the Master Plan put forth by the St. Louis County Parks Department to restore Kinloch Park as a family meeting area and a recreational space for the community. You can help by donating at various membership levels but please be sure to mark your donation specifically for Kinloch Park. Any donation so indicated will be reserved specifically for the work on Kinloch Park.

Cost Estimates* for the Revitalization of Kinloch Park

The total cost of the project will be approximately $1,000,000. The Park Department has agreed to help with some of the construction costs, which will help to keep these costs down.
